Partisan Feeling Has Kept Alley Artists at Controversy.

CO-OPERATION HAS BEEN LACKING

Concerted Effort Might Bring 1914 Event to Washington.

By KIRK C. MILLER.

Why isn't the annual tournament of ne of the big bowling organizations ever held in Washington? That ques-tion is as old as the banks of the Poac, and the answers have been a ment it seems quite plausible that the pin knights should choose the Nation's Capital as the scene of their nnual bowling bouts, and time and with booming stories in which Wash-ington was heralded as the objective meeting point of the country's army of uckpin and tenpin artists. Yes, at is an old story, and here, today, a scribe comes across with another splurt of en-thusiasm in which the suggestion, "Why not bring it to Washington?" is made. Quite a commendable thing. Indeed Washington would be glad to have the American Bowling Congress or National Bowling Association select it as the next meeting place; but what has Washington in general and Washington bowlers in particular ever done to shake the city attract either of the annual bowling clussics?

No Good Result.

dozen or so attempts made by the local contingent to direct the trend of the bowlers to Washington, no good has ever resulted. About the first ob-stacle to arise has been whether to try for the A. B. C. or N. B. A., and right here the inevitable appeared. A split. Some wanted the big tournament and others, the more sensible, were satisfied with making a bid for the tournament I the younger organization. Result, divided efforts were made for both events, and Washington has never received either; and it is timely to state that i either; and it is timery to saise time. In over will until the bowlers take it into their heads to pull in the same direction for either one of the annual events.

Some time ago the American Bowling Congress and National Bowling Association reached an agreement whereby they were to refrain from infringing on each other's territory. This was very shortly after the N. B. A. was organized, apringing from the A. B. C., when the parent organization saw that the annual matches might conflict. The new body agreed to keep its territory East of the Appalachians and the monter organization should be seen of the seasy parents in the East this year, according to all relation likewise agreed to hold its tournaments in the Western section. In the face of this, Washington bowlern who originally were A. B. C. followers involving the correction in the N. B. A. tooth and na'l.

s the ideal place for the big event, were They simply erred in the man-n which they chose to bring it there. One thing is certain, the A. B. C. is not going to hold an annual tournament here, for the reason that the N. B. A. is too strong to allow the older crowd to invade its territory. Another thing is almost certain, viz—the N. B. A. will not bring its next matches here because Washington has not made a concerted effort to induce it to do so. It takes money, it takes carefully laid plans by men who know how to conduct conventions, and it takes a more carnest attitude by the business men than has ever been displayed here.

Many have suggested that the approaching inauguration of a President would make this city doubly attractive to bowlers throughout the country. So, but the only one place in Washington that will accommodate a bowling tournament. Convention Hall, is going to be given over to housing of soldiers for the inaugural parade. However, there is about fifteen months between now and the time of the 1924 tournament, and if a co-operative effort were made by the bowlers, Chamber of Commerce, and Board of Trade, Washington might get an edge in on the N. B. A. tournament.

Football Heroes

By GEORGE E. PHAIR.

A football here is an able-bodied young man who carries his brains In his foot. Many a man has been kicked out of the Hall of Fame, but the football here literally kicks himself into it. The football here thrives from the first of October until Thanksgiving Day. During the rest of the year he is unbonered and unsung unless he is thrown out of school or pinched for wrecking a moving picture show. The process of becoming a football hero is quite simple. All that is necessary is to kick a ball in the general direction of two white sticks, known as a goal. If you get away with it you are a hero and your picture is framed and hung in the stein room of the Phi Getta Bun Chapter House for future generations to see and No football hero ever has won a Nobel prize for literary or scientific attainment. In fact, nobody knows what becomes of him after he has served his time in college, and nobody cares two whits, or

However, a diligent search would reveal several of him working in almost any reputable foundry or lumber camp.

Middies Win Clean-Cut Victory When Army Is Doped of for the Honor.

By LOUIS A. DOUGHER.

That 'was wrong about that Navy goat. He didn't die. Indeed, he wasn't even misdaid in the hurry-scurry of the departure from Annapolis for Philadelphia. Perhaps, at the very start of the young Leonard demonstrated his ability to outkick both Keyes and Hubbs, he pranced and danced before the Navy stands in real goatish gice. And after the game that gont-well, what would a real Navy goat be inclined to do when the Middes won the hardest football contest of the season, 6 to 0? He just the reventh heaven of goatish delight.

The moment the final whistle blew putting an end to the gymnastic atputting an end to the gymnastic at-traction staged by the Navy cheer lead-er on the sidelines, the midshipmen poured out upon the geld. In a twink-ling the big blanket, adorned with Army insignia, was torn from the am-biling mule on the opposite sidelines and was wrapped about Mr. Goat. Then he was driven about at the head of the inevitable parade which keeps staid homebodies watching for half an hour the celebration of the winners when-ever the service elevens clash. Happy? Some.

Some.
Yes, the Middles won a clean cut victory when all the dopes ers said that the soldiers were due to land the honors. The West Pointers had picnty of opportunities, but always failed. Twice they came within an ace of working the trick only to have it go awry.

Field Goal Fails.

jake punt, raced around Gilchrist for twenty-five yards as clean as a whiatle. Line plunges put the ball down dangerously near the Navy poal before the sailor forwards found themselves and stopped the viclous old-style plunges of the Army backs.

Keyes dropped back to the 25-yard line and attempted a field goal. His dropkick had height and direction and a roar rose from the packed Army stands as the ball sailed through the air. The players leaped and danced on the moddy gridiron until Referce Bill Langford declared it no goal. That hurt.

Never again did the Army show and consistent offense. Its old-style plunges became weaker and weaker until they lost ground instead of gained. There was no diversity of attack and the steadily strengthening Navy forwards began to rip and tear the Army line from tackle to tackle.

Loses Another Chance.

Loses Another Chance.

Leonard boomed one of his longest punts down the field and the last chance for the soldiers had faded from victories, one defeat, and one tie resulted in the games this season, and the team's apparent awakening in the last of the season is laid to the fact that being a small college the eleven falled to measure up to others in having a number of good substitutes.

Coach Brooke will have a hard task in filling the places vacated by Gles, who will graduate in June. These men have been bearing the brunt of the work all season and will make a big gap in the line-up.

In the last minutes of play Everett made three forward passes which came near scoring another touchdown, but the Western team rallied and took the ball away on downs. Crowds rushed on the field at all times and play was stopped for awhile until mounted policemen cleared the inclosure.

Leonard was outkleking his opponents from ten to fifteen yards on every punt, and Ingram and Glichrist were burling the Army backs in their tracks the moment they touched the ball. The driving charge of the Navy forwards increased until the Army line vanished as soon as the ball moved. It seemed but a matter of time.

Army was nearly played out in the fourth period, and soon big Brown, the Navy guard, attempted a field goal from the 4-syard line. There wasn't quite enough lift in the kick, though, and it salled under the bar.

Quickly they were at it again, and soon Leonard sprinted around right end from a fake kick formation. Inasmuch as Markoe had walked on Rodes' tummy, Army was pensitzed to its lib-yard line. Two plays failed to gain, but they served to bring the hall out in front of the uprights, and then came the itest field goal.

work for such a slippery footing, and Brown dropped back to the ai-yard line and once more booted a place-ment goal over the bar. That mettled the corn and beans of the Army. Old Style Football.

Occasionally one imagined himself ooking at a football game back in 1901 or 1902, wondering only at the absence of the pushing and pulling. It was the same old stuff of those days that was being shown on Franklin Field. Neithe quarterback seemed to know much about new football. Not till the dying moments of the contest did the Army try a forward pass. By that time luci had entered into the fray, and Merrilat after taking a forty-yard hurl, slipped in the mud and dropped the ball, A successful eatch might have changed successful catch might have changed things right then, for the ball went to the Navy Zi-yard line.

It was always a savage pounding of the center men, always the center men, The lone variation was an end run from a fake kick. The Navy worked this several times successfully because of the superior sprinting ability of Leonard. He was as fleet as the wind, outstripping the weak Army ends, racing for thirty yards or so each time. Forward passes were torgotten in the fury of the fray. Those tried failed by the way, and so the sallors and soldiers returned to their dogged old style game, a delight for the spectator and a hardship for the athletes. In the kicking Leonard was a star, He used splendid judgment in placing his punts and booted the ball for long distances. However, no mater how far the ball traveled, Gilchrist, Brown, flowe, and Ingram were always down under it, burying the eatchyr in the mud with never-failing skill.

Navy Is Superior.

Navy Is Superior.

Navy was superior in every way. The forwards were quicker on the charge, the ends more alert and swifter, the ounting far beter than Army's. And et, an eleven equipped with modern football plays could have run away from either service team. It was painful to see those sturdy young athletes wasting their strength on steady pounding the line under their own goal posts. It was magnificent to see McReavy plowing for eight and ten yards throug coal posts, but it wasn't football, The Navy tackles made monkeys out of their opponents, but never was a play started that shot off them. Their splendid charging went for nought, save on the defense, when they frequently spilled the Army plays before they were under way.

Brown and Howe covered themselves with glory by their tine work. Both glants were down the field under the kicks. Both opened big holes in the line and they stopped half the attempts on the end by their opponents.

But then, folks don't go to see modern football displayed by the scryles elevens. of their opponents, but never was

The business of those in conference was occupied with straightening out the difficulties of the various 5, oleats made. It also was agreed that no conference universities should schedule more than twelve games of baseball and basketball during the season with other conference members, and that games should be rotated from year to year so as to play with all members of the conference universities. This rule was adopted, it was explained, to prevent possible disputes as to championships.
